TAKE SIMMONS
LIVER REGULATOR
For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.
This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.
The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.
No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.
Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.
If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.
A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.
I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. What He Believed in.

'That's a great note of Jem's, I do think, marrying a church woman. They say she teaches a class in Sunday-school, too, and has a face as flat and solemn as a half-baked pancake!'

'What—Jem Knight—has he married a reg'lar-built-pious-go-to-church-and-be-good women, and him one of the joliest, take-it-easy-and do-as-you-please cusses between here and Chicago?'

'That's the talk.'

'Great Jee-rusalem! a sweet time he'll have. Jest fancy her making him slick up to the music of slow church bells Sunday mornings and marching him off, 'stead of having a good time at the gardens, to a straight backed pew to listen to Gospel mush!'

Thus spoke a couple of Jem Knight's familiar chums, amid a knot of the same ilk, who were seated in the enjoyment of their customary beer and cigars in Bottler's popular saloon. Tom Winter, a third one of the party, seemed to be particularly impressed by the conversation. He was as a sharp-eyed young chap of twenty three or there abouts, who was noted for the almost reckless manner in which he went in for 'having a good time.' Not that there was anything really vicious about him. He was straightforward, manly and honest, but full of desire to enjoy life in is freest-going aspects, and especially liberal in his views touching the observance of Sunday as a religious ordinance. No one had ever heard of his going to church, or that he cared a button either one way or the other about church-going or any of its straight-laced arangements. Hence it was with more than common surp ise that his chums heard him sav:

'Well, I don't undertake to know, gents. If Jem's wife is the right woman otherwise, i should say he'd made a good strike, getting one who goes to church. I don't go much on churches myself. I used to go with the old folks when I was a little shaver about knee-high to a duck. But that was when I had to. It's a good many years now since I was inside of one. As I said, I don't go much on it myself. It's too slow for my taste. At the same time, I believe in a woman going to church. I've noticed the women that go to church are generally the best sort. A man can depend on 'em. They keep things straight at home and bring the children up right. A man can feel safe when he's away having his own fun, that they won't be running into any of the blamed dance-hall and beer-garden foolishness that winds up so often in disgrace to a man's home. Oh, you boys may sneer. I allow it may be all humbug, and too slow for men like us. But it's dead sure; the women who go to church are the steadiest sort a man can tie to. I don't care how much you laugh and poke fun. I've seen to many wrecked homes and ruined lives grow out of picking wives from free dances and Sunday picnic. There's too much nonsense in it for me. If I ever marry a woman I shall do as Jem has done—pick a wife that goes to church.'

And he did. To the increased surprise and astonishment of his chums, the jovial, rollicking, devil-may-care Tom, who had all his life gone in for ever y species of enjoyment; made fun of parsons and what he called long-faced, church-going milk-sops, more recklessly than any of them, actually married a member of the Rev. Mr. Gracely's church, a woman who was noted for the solidly serious aspect of her face and strict observance of the Sab bath.

A nice-looking woman, to be sure, and steady, with not a bit of nonsense about her. A rare good housekeeper, too, who kept herself and all things about her in the very best of 'apple-pie order.' That much was conceded; only, as one of the boys put it, 'too thundering orderly! A nice time poor Tom'll have now. We shall see him creeping about with a face as long as a fiddle.'

This proved a mistake. So far as outer appearance was concerned, Tom lost none of his old-time jollity of speech and demeanor, and he seemed to retain all his old pleasure-loving disposition. When ever he met the boys he was as keen as ever to have a good time; neither did he fall in going to church. On the latter point he remarked once in strict confidence that it was all right, and a mighty good thing for a woman to go to church, but too slow for a man.

Still, it was noted after awhile that he was not the same Tom. As the years rolled by and three handsome children began to accompany their mother to Sunday-school, and who were so neatly clothed and well-behaved as to call forth the admiring comments of all who saw them, their father grew a trifle more staid and dignified, as one beginning to be somewhat impressed with the more serious aspects of life; to feel that a man was made for something more serious than an endless round of careless frolic. It was seen, too, that he was more careful not to let the good times he indulged in, come within scope of his home surroundings. This much, at least, his wife's influence had accomplished.

'I dont go to church,' he said apologetically to a friend one day, 'but it wouldn't be the right thing to let those boys of mine get to know their father's free didos. It's all right enough so far as I am concerned, because I know when I've gone far enough. But it's best to let the children come up sort of straight; the way their mother wants.'

A most admirable woman this same mother had turned out to be, as Tom very well knew, and no little he was proud of her. Yet not half proud enough. Indeed, it was not yet in his apprehension to appreciate her full value. It did not enter his conception that the respect which had fallen to himself in connection with his excellently-ordered home was entirely due to his church-going wife.

An especially sensible woman, too. Albeit it had grieved her more than words can express that her husband could find enjoyment in pleasures which at best were empty and frivolous, if not positively wrong, by not the slightest petulant complaint had she ever upbraided him or striven by aught save the gentlest suggestions to lead him to her own better way of life.

There came a sad day, alas! for him, and still more, alas! for the three beautiful children. The good wife and mother was called away from them, and they were left desolate indeed. The blow was a hard one. What now was the bereaved husband to do? So far as worldly goods were concerned he was amply provided. He had abundance; but not all the wealth in the universe could have made up the loss they had sustained. Even his roystering companions confessed to each other that it was 'awful rough, you know;' that in his case there could be no doubt that Tom had 'struck it rich' when he got the wife who went to church.

What would he do? A year later he told a bosom friend that he must secure a second mother for her children.

'You will marry one that goes to church?'

'More resolved on that than ever.'

'But you don't go yourself?'

'No. The fact is, it's too slow for me. I like to enjoy myself with things more lively; and when I've got one at home who pulls steady in the traces, as these church-going women do, I can feel safe and comfortable.'

He found the woman he thought would suit. A lady who had been somewhat intimate with his wife, a member of the same church, and altogether after the same right-going pattern. In fact, a steady, clear-headed woman, who knew when things were right, and was prompt and decisive to have them so.

'True,' as Tom whispered to himself, 'I expect she'll try to pull me short up into straight strings, a good deal tighter than Emily did. She is not as soft and yielding as I'd like. But she'll be all right for the children. I can trust her. When it comes to a question of what's best to be done, there ain't a bit of nonsense about her. So I'll take her.'

To his great surprise, however, he found that the second church-going woman was not prepared to accept his offer with the pleased alacrity he had expected. Knowing that she was in rather straightened circumstances, entirely dependent on her own exertions for a livlihood, he had felt sure that his own well-appointed home would prove a temptation the lady would not dream to refuse. But, instead of the gratefully expressed 'yes' he had looked for, she replied:

'May I ask why you have given me the preference, Mr. Winter?'

'Because I want a mother for those children who goes to church. I married Emily on that account, and she managed so well that I determined to choose one of the same good sort.'

'I commend the wisdom of your decision. But you do not attend church yourself?'

'O, it don't matter about me, you know. So long as the mother is all right to keep things straight at home it don't make a bit of difference whether a man goes to church or not.'

'In his own estimation, perhaps. But have you thought, Mr. Winter, that your church-going wife may be just as anxious to have a husband whose integrity of principle may be under the saving influence of church attendance as you are in regard to the lady of your choice? If you desire to feel at rest touching your wife's conduct at home is it not equally desirable that your wife's mind should be at rest touching your honesty of conduct when out of her sight?'

Here was a new aspect, and at first he thought it was a very foolish aspect, not to say ridiculous. He could not understand the idea of a man being amenable to the same rules of moral conduct that are required in a woman. And he said so. But to all his arguments and pleadings the lady turned a deaf ear. She would not marry a man who did not go to church; that much of safeguard to the clean life of the man she would accept must be given in return for her own wholesome purity and unblemished principles.

At first Tom vowed to himself that he would not tie himself down to any such unmanly giving way to woman's foolish whim. As he more and more observed, however, that the lady was possessed of precisely the excellent qualities he especially desired in a mother for his children, he finally gave the requisite pledge that he would accompany his wife to church at least once each Sabbath-day.

'Poor chap!' said his old chums, 'now he is shorn of his liberty, tied to the apron-strings of a hard-faced, church going fanatic. He'll be in a lunatic asylum in less than six months.'

They were mistaken. Certainly, a great change came over him. That was apparrent to the least observant. He was no longer the roystering, free-and-easy Tom. The old card-playing, dice-throwing, time-wasting haunts lost his presence. No mare was he seen in the noisy, brawling, tippling beer-gardens on Sunday. He now sought rest and peaceful quiet from the cares of the week's business within the blessed safeguards of his own fireside. And when, with wife and children, he walked to church, no more beautiful picture could anywhere be seen. And, as time sped on, and he found that the influence of the church going he had always seen to be so good for a woman equally refining and excellent in its effects on a man, he blessed the impulse that led his second wife to impel him into the path of life's truest enjoyment; and, albeit, here were those of his old chums who still wondered that he could have been 'led by the nose by a woman,' most of them were free to confess that, after all, he was more of a man, a better man, in fact, than he had ever been before.

To one who asked him how he ever came to let himself be tied to a woman's apron-strings, he said:

'If the chief bulk of married men could be tied to the apron-strings of wives who are anchored on a foundation of church-going principles, we should have a far greater number of happy homes and vastly more peace and happiness in the world at large.'

The Boy Was Safe.

At noon yesterday a Michigan avenue grocer made a sudden dash for his open door, and a boy who had been standing outside made just as sudden a dash for the middle of the street.

'I tell you I won't stand this much longer,' shouted the grocer, as he shook his fist at the boy.

'What was I doing?'

'You were breaking these carrots to pieces.'

'Well, can't a fellow see if they are ripe?'

'You look out! I'll have an officer after you.'

'The one on this beat?'

'Yes, the one on this beat!'

'Rats! He's a courting my sister, and you can imagine the sort of a collar he'd give me! Just let him walk me down and Bell will shake him like an old door mat!'—Detroit Free Press.

A Cowardly, Contemptible Saying.

"A woman is at the bottom of every mischief."

So say a legion of noodles who know not what they say, and who think they think, when they only repeat what they have heard others say before them.

Do these faddists ever reflect that there are two kinds of people in the world, male and female, and as they generally asociate together it is probable that every occurrence will directly or indirectly involve some individual of both sexes?

But unfortunately for the faddists, there are some conditions in life in which their theory can be thoroughly tested. In the California and Australian gold-mining regions they had no women, and yet, if our memory serves us right, their days and nights were not altogether passed in halcyon simplicity; but, on the contrary, their camps were scenes of fighting, stabbing, gouging, shooting, lynching, and bloody murder generally.

On board ship they have no women to make mischief, and yet they are not altogether lamblike in their relations, living in brotherly love and harmony. The soft answer is often a belaying pin, and the hand of a fellowship is frequently at the end of a yard-arm.

Now, if the opposite were a popular expression, that "that there is a man at the bottom of every trouble," it would be much more difficult to disprove.

No, the oft-quoted saying is a false, cowardly, and contemptible one, and a disgrace to the whole male sex. It shows that men are ashamed to assume the responsibility of their own evil deeds, and meanly try to shuffle them off on the shoulders of poor, weak women.—Tex. Siftings.

A Curious Calculation.

A mathematical calculation which is just old enough to make interesting reading once more is based upon the following passage from the Book of Revelation: "And he measured the city with the reed twenty thousand furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal." This pretty little calculation, which is being freshly quoted, is as follows: Twelve thousand furlongs, 7,920,000 feet, which being cubed, 496,793,088,000,000,000,000 cubic feet. Half of this will reserve for the Throne of God and the Court of Heaven, and half the balance for streets, leaving a remainder of 124,168,275,000,000,000,000 cubic feet. Divide this by 4,096, the cubical feet in a room 16 feet square, and there will be 30,321,843,750,000,000 rooms. We will now suppose the world always did and always will contain 990,000,000 inhabitants, and that a generation lasts for thirty-three and one-third years, making in all 2,970,000,000 every century, and that the world will stand 100,000 years or 1,000 centuries, making in all 2,970,000,000,000 inhabitants. Then suppose there were 100 worlds equal to this in number of inhabitants and duration of years, making a total of 297,000,0 0,000,000 persons, and there would be more than 100 rooms 16 feet square for each person."

A REPORTER of the Nashville Union took a view of the Apache captives, as they went through Nashville toward Florida, and found them interesting, if not pretty. There were bucks and squaws and papooses of every conceivable size and every condition of aboriginal filthiness. A majority of the men, however, were fine, stalwart, broad-shouldered fellows over six feet high, with high cheek-bones, long, black hair, and of light copper color. They were rigged out in all styles and modes of fantastic citizens' clothing, and seemed to have donned whatever they could lay their hands upon, while a large number still wore the aboriginal buckskin leggins and gayly colored blankets. One strapping big buck, warm as it was, was wearing a chinchilla overcoat that must have weighed twenty pounds, and yet he viewed things with a solid indifference that appeared cool enough for a cucumber. Some wore hats, though not a few were perfectly bareheaded. One fellow had on a battered stovepipe, and another venerable scalp-taker had a big red bandana handkerchief wrapped about his head.

WOES OF A CANDIDATE.

Schemes That are Devised for Making Politicians Come Down With the Cash.

A young man wearing a serious air and a billious-looking straw hat walked briskly into the sheriff's office. The binding of his Prince Albert coat had loosened its hold in many places, and the lapels bore the finger marks of a long struggle with hard times. A frayed black tie had climbed high on an overworked collar, and his shoes looked as if they wanted to breathe away their wearied spirits on a garbage pile.

In tones mysterious and deferential, and with a very-important-business expression on his face, he inquiried for Canute R. Matson, the Republican candidate for sheriff. Being shown into that gentleman's private office, he took the candidate aside and began:

'Mr. Matson, I have the honor to be grand worthy Begum of the Desplaines Street Scandinavian Incorruptible Political and Social Club. We have on our roles the names of 500 of the most influential citizens on the west side. We are independent in politics, but having investigated the character of ——.'

'Certainly—I understand—you are going to fit up headquarters for the purpose of carrying on an unrelenting warefare against corruption in politics. How would a fiver suit you?'

The young man took the proffered bank note and departed.

'That's the hundreth and fiftieth club I've been asked to help,' the big blonde candidate sighed. 'Every ward has a half-dozen. There are Matson clubs, Davis clubs, clubs with fanciful names, and clubs with out names. A half-dozen needy gentlemen get together in the back room of a saloon and organize a club.

'Are any other schemes worked on luckless candidates?'

Mr. Matson turned an injured, incredulous expression on the questioner.

'Look at this', he said, as he pulled a drawer from his desk. It contained three or four dozen blue, red, yellow, lavender, or rose-colored bits of pasteboard. 'All tickets to benefits that will never benefit anybody except the committee; for balls which no one will dance, and entertainments that will entertain only a few fellows in hard luck.

'What else? Well, cast your eye over that,' and the weary candidate took a religious weekly paper off his desk.

In one of the columns was a number of cards printed in large display type: 'Vote for C. R. Matson for sheriff,' was marked with heavy-blue pencil lines. 'Vote for George R. Davis for treasurer,' 'Vote for Michael Schweisthal for treasurer,' and on through the list of candidates of both parties the advertisement ran.

'Nobody escaped, you see. We'll all get the bills before election. I did not order the card, and the other candidates were probably not consulted. This is the newest scheme that has been sprung on us, and it looks like a good one.

'That isn't all. Fifty newspapers have been started since the campaign began. Either of them will support the candidate who gives it the most money. Each has a large circulation among the laboring classes; it is a family paper and reaches every home in Chicago. Then comes the illustrated papers. They will print your picture and a sketch of your life for a consideration. Then you will be asked to purchase a thousand or two copies.'

'Do these fellows make any money?'

'They must profit by their schemes or there wouldn't be so many of them. Many weak-kneed candidates give up. The 'touchers' often make threats of opposing the election of candidates who refuse to come down, and scare them into buying the schemers off. A candidate's life is an unhappy one. There comes a suspicious-looking party. He probably has a child to bury, or his mother-in-law is dying, or his landlord is about to turn him into the street. He's a life-long Republican, and can help me in his ward. I'll just step out at the side door. Good-day.'

Not Worth Much.

During the recent election in Pulaski County, Arkansaw, one of the township ballot boxes, when brought to the County Clerk's office was found to be empty.

'How is this?' asked the Clerk.

'How's what?' the man who had brought the box replied.

'Why, there are no ballots in the box.'

'They told me to bring the box—they didn't say nothin' about the tickets.'—Ark. Traveler.

A Peculiar Power.

'Now, children,' said the teacher of the infant natural history class after the peculiarities of the crab had been discussed, 'is there any other member of the animal kingdom that possesses the power to move rapidly backward?'

'Yes,' said one of the most promising of the little scholars, 'the mule kin do it.'—N. Y. Sun.

A Desperate Fight with a Snake.

Jake Beiman, an employe on Conn's ranch, went up into the hills to get some cattle when he encountered a snake. The reptile was close to a large rock when he found him, and the rock was flanked by a log. Beiman noticed a large hole at an angle of the rock and log, for which the snake made on being surprised. Seizing a large rock he cast it at the snake, grazing its body. On receiving the blow it turned like lightning and sprang at its antagonist. Beiman stumbled over some rushes, and the snake coiled about him in an instant. A piece of wood was close to the man's hand, and reaching for it he struck the snake several sharp blows on the head. The latter turned and ran his head into the hole, dragging Beiman close to it.

The man braced his feet against the snake, but could not extricate himself, as the snake had twisted half his body around his left leg, and, as he afterward said, "Was just squeezing the life out of it." Beiman was nearly an hour in this predicament, until he finally thought of his knife, and getting it out of his pocket, jabbed it into the snake's body. After a few cuts the snake became enraged, and began to wriggle its head out of the hole. Beiman saw that his time was short, and made a lively attack on the snake's neck, severing it. The instant it was severed the neck rose convulsively in the air and a spout of blood came full in the frightened man's face. At this point he fainted away, and he thinks he must have remained in that condition over an hour. When he came to the snake was still coiled around his leg, but dead. He brought it home, and it is now on exhibition at the ranch. It measures ten feet eight inches without the head.—Carson [Nev.] Appeal.

Accident to Senator Wade Hampton.

COLUMBIA, S C. Nov. 24.—Senator Wade Hampton, while deer hunting on his Mississippi plantation on Monday, became separated from the rest of the party, who, toward evening, supposing that the Senator had left the field, returned home. At 8 o'clock last night General Hampton being still absent a searching party started out and found the old General a short distance from the house, much exhausted and painfully hurt, but making his way homeward. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon, as he was riding through a thick wood where vines were numerous a "Supple Jack" vine caught his gun and discharged it, the load of buckshot entering the head of his horse, killing the beast instantly. The animal fell on Senator Hampton, and in his maimed condition it took some time to extricate himself. He had been walking through the woods for nearly five hours with only one good leg.

Ahead of the Egyptians.

"Talk about Egyptian embalming," said a Chicago undertaker. "Why, it don't compare with what we do nowadays. These old Egyptians didn't know what art was in the profession of undertaking. There is too much nonsense afloat about the lost art of embalming as practiced by the Egyptians. In the first place their climate is of a kind to preserve dead animal tissue whether it is embalmed or not. It is very dry in Egypt and the temperature is even. The boasted mummies of Egypt are simply dried up specimens of skin and bones. To-day we can embalm a body so that it will preserve the fulness and hue of life and it will never dry up at all. If the modern process of embalming had been known to the Egyptians of several thousand years ago, those old Kings who were laid away in the pyramids for us moderns to look at, instead of presenting the appearance of tanned leather, would have the kingly dignity of form and feature which was theirs when their bodies were laid away for the last long sleep."

The First Watch.

At first the watch was about the size of a desert plate. It had weights, and was used as a "pocket clock." The earliest known use of the modern name occurs in the record of 1552, which mentions that Edward VI. had "one larum or watch of iron, the case being likewise of iron gilt, with two plummets of lead." The first watch may readily be supposed to be of rude execution. The first great improvement—the substitution of springs for weights—was in 1560. The earliest springs were not coiled, but only straight pieces of steel. Early watches had only one hand, and, being wound up twice a day, they could not be expected to keep the time nearer than fifteen or twenty minutes in twelve hours. The dials were of silver and brass; the cases had no crystals, but opened at the back and front, and were four or five inches in diameter. A plain watch cost more than $1,500, and, after one was ordered, it took a year to make it.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, DEC. 2ND, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is hard at work on his annual message. The document is expected to be much shorter than last year's but no less forcible and pointed.

THE report is that Mayor Smith will soon announce his candidacy for the re-election to Philadelphia's mayorship. No doubt the "dandy" mayor thinks "let the past be forgotten"

THE second session of the Forty-ninth Congress will begin its work next Monday. The calendars are filled with live matter which will demand the immediate attention of the members. Most of the business on hand are appropriation bills, and they are just ripe enough to make the session a lively and interesting one.

INDIANA Democrats dispute the legality of the election of Robertson, Republican, for Lieut. Governor, to fill the vacancy caused by General Manson who accepted a Federal office. Green Smith, President pro tem. of the state senate holds that the election was unnecessary and filed a petition for an injunction to restrain the Secretary of State from transmitting the result of the vote cast. The outcome of the suit will have great bearing on the coming Senatorial contest.

A POLICE SCANDAL is the latest excitement which the public at Washington have for their daily topic. Chief of Police, Maj. Walker, is said to have given orders to his subordinates to keep a sharp eye on the conduct of congressmen and watch over their morals. The object of this rediculous order was to asperse the private character of some of the members and thus compel them to support the passage of certain laws which Chief Walker wants made for the district of Columbia. The consequence of this rash and unreasonable proceedure on the part of the police was the discharge of several of the officers.

AFTER the adjournment of court last week the Centre county Bar Association had a meeting for the purpose of adopting the following preamble and resolution :

WHEREAS, W. C. Heinle, Esq., having served as District Attorney of this county for two successive terms (six years) and having finished his last term will retire from his office on the first Monday of January, 1887, therefore

Resolved, that the bar of Centre county, recalling the uniform kindness and courtesy shown by Mr. Heinle in the prosecution of the criminal business of the courts, cheerfully bear witness to the ability, integrity, efficiency and firmness with which District Attorney Heinle always discharged the complicated duties of his office.

The above is a very clear and demonstrative expression of their sentiments by the members of the bar and we are sure that every man in the county and especially Mr. Heinle's party friends will readily endorse this testimony. Mr. Heinle's happy disposition of treating those with whom he comes in contact kindly and courteously is well known, while the faithful work he did in the past for his party, we hope, will never be forgotten. While his successor in office has already won the public favor as well as the esteem of the legal fraternity, Mr. Heinle's retirement will be the source of universal regret.

AN interesting comparison of the prices paid by advertisers for advertisements in small and large papers in this country was made in a recent issue of the New York World. It says that many a merchant in the country when he pays $10 for an advertisement in his local paper thinks he is just donating that much to the publisher, while actually he derives rich benefits from that very advertisement. Compare for instance the prices charged by papers like the New York Herald, from $40,000 to $50,000 a year per column, or the New York Tribune from $30 to $40,000. Now reckon the weekly circulation of these papers at 600,000 and take the country paper with about 1000 and the price for a column in the latter should accordingly be the 600th part of $40,000 or $50,000 making the cost of it from $66 to $83 per year. And still the Herald and the Tribune are constantly crowded with advertisements while the country paper must beg of his patrons to let him have an ad. at half price. There is lots of room for improvement in this branch of business.

THE thirteen New York "Boodle" Aldermen, who are arraigned for selling their votes for the benefit of jobbers and speculators, were fully exposed by the recent confession of ex-alderman Fullgroff, one of their number. Besides these thirteen nine more are complicated in this infamous "boodle" work and will be made to answer the serious charges. And it is almost certain that the frauds who purchased certain privileges from these aldermen will have to join the crowd and be also "drawn over the coal." Jachne, the principal offender, has commenced to serve his term in the penitentiary, three others escaped to Canada, one died and another became insane, so that of the original thirteen seven remain awaiting their sentence. The last process against one of the members of the thirteen, namely against McQuade, ended last week, the jury being divided. Their vote stood 9 for acquittal and 3 for sentence. A new process will be necessary. One thing is sure. The New Yorkers are firmly resolved to send the whole posse of criminal aldermen to Sing Sing, if it is at all possible.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29, 1886.

This is one of the busiest weeks of the year in Washington. Congress will be here in one week, and everybody must be ready for it from the President to the boarding-house keeper. The President's message is receiving its last course of condensation and revision. Cabinet officers are performing similar work on their annual report, and their assistants of the First, Second, Third and Fourth degrees, with several hundred Bureau Chiefs, Controllers, Auditors and Officers too numerous to mention, are arranging their figures and plodding over long tables of statistics.

The streets of the city are again alive with a busy, bustling throng, and up at the long deserted Capitol, Chairman Randall, with a quorum of his committee, has for a week been pressing work on Appropriation bills. He reports fine progress, and says Congress will not have to wait on him for money bills. During the week he has had in consultation, the heads of different Bureaus and Government establishments, with regard to the needs of their respective departments for the next year. Among these were Prof. Baird of the National Museum, Smithsonian and Fish Commissioner; Superintendent Thorne of the Coast Survey; Dr. Godding of the Government Insane Asylum; Col. Wilson of public buildings and grounds and others.

The improved condition of the Government service under Democratic Administration has been mentioned repeatedly, but new instances of reform are continually making themselves felt, which deserve special notice. The President probably never made a happier stroke of public policy than when he called Mr. Benedict here to be Public Printer. In the period of three months the notoriously demoralized Government Printing office has been put in such order that about one-third more work is now being done with the same amount of money, and the press room which three months ago had 400 forms waiting for the press is now clear, having "caught up."

It is too bad the President cannot be left in peace and quiet with his modest little country home. As soon as the real estate dealers of Washington knew of his intention to buy this place they secured as much ground in the vicinity as possible and ever since they have been using the President's name in the most liberal manner in connection with all sorts of schemes they have organized for improvements at the public expense. Of course the President has been in no way concerned in those manouvers, but rumors to that effect cannot but be annoying to him.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the past few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure now on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucus surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address,

Miscellaneous News.

Through the Whirlpool.

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 28.—George Hazlett and Miss Sadie Allen, of Buffalo, went through the rapids and whirlpool this afternoon in the torpedo shaped barrel used by Hazlett and Potts last summer. They were in the rapids and whirlpool five minutes, and were taken out of the eddy on the Canada side, just below the whirlpool, three-quarters of an hour later, in good condition.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: 'I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own house work. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain."

THE MAYOR OF HARRISBURG DEAD.

Simon Cameron Wilson, the chief executive of the city of Harrisburg, died suddenly last Saturday evening of heart disease. Mr. Wilson was very much liked by everybody in the city, having been a faithful and strict officer, but at the same time a generous and kind man, and the public are greatly grieved over his unexpected demise. He was 46 years of age and was serving his second term as mayor of Harrisburg.

DISASTROUS AND FATAL FIRE AT DULUTH, IOWA.

Over 800,000 Bushels of Grain Consumed and the Loss Footing Up to About $850,000—Three Men Missing.

DULUTH, Nov. 28.—The most disastrous fire in the history of this place, broke out last night and destroyed two large elevators and a row of nine frame buildings and stores. About 800,000 bushels of grain was destroyed. The total loss will be about $850,000, and the insurance $600,000. Of four men in one of the elevators, only one escaped. Charles Moore, watchman, after being severely burned, jumped from the cupola to the ground, a distance of 80 feet, and was killed. A man named Larech and Foreman Charles Lee are missing.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner.

Terrible Accident In a Mine at Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 26.—A terrible explosion of gas occurred in the Conyngham shaft this morning shortly after the miners and laborers had entered. About fifty miners and laborers were sitting at the foot of the shaft waiting for the inside boss when the explosion occurred. The explosion was the most serious that has occurred in the antracite coal fields this year. It is now definitely known that thirty-two are severely burned and others slightly injured. Twelve of the men will die. The scene at the colliery while the injured men were being taken from the shaft was terrible. A crowd of several hundred persons had gathered at the mouth of the shaft, among them, the wives, the mothers, and daughters of the injured men. They were taken out of the pit and they were brought to the engine house, and the women made desperate efforts to gain an entrance. Their entreaties and frantic demonstrations of grief were heartrending, but they were sternly kept outside while the blackened, scorched and bleeding victims of the disaster were wrapped in blankets soaked in oil. The floor of the engine house was covered with writhing human forms so disfigured by fire as to be unrecognizable. As fast as possible they were taken to the hospital or to their homes and so rapidly was the work done that by 9 o'clock every one had been taken out and carried away.

Terrible Death.

Joseph C. Lynah, a former merchant of Harrisburg, but since 1883 traveling agent for the Hazard Powder Company, New York, was killed by an explosion of 20 kegs of powder. At the time of his death, Monday Nov. 29th, he was at Galveston, Texas, selling several hundred kegs of powder for his firm. Discovering about 20 kegs of powder which were damaged he proceeded to destroy them. He and an employe in one of the magazines there carried the powder 150 feet from the magazine. Lynah kicked in the heads of a couple of kegs and piled the other 18 on top of the open ones. As he pulled out his match box Drew protested against lighting 500 pounds of powder at arms' length, and warned Lynah that he would certainly be killed. Lynah had handled powder so many years that he was careless, and replied by telling Drew that he would teach him something new. Drew thereupon started and ran as fast as he could. He had only proceeded 50 yards when he heard a most terrific explosion. Turning around he saw Lynah spinning around like a top 60 feet in the air, his clothes being ablaze. The unfortunate man fell fully 75 feet from the spot where he went up. Every vistage of clothing and hair was burned from the body, and the corpse was as black as that of a negro. Drew was uninjured. In the magazine close by was stored enough dynamite to blow Galveston to atoms, but fortunately it did not explode, although the concussion was very great and heard all over the island.

Big Mail Robbery.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 28.—Twenty-two sacks, containing mails from England to Germany, Russia, Austria and the east, while in transit on a tram in Belgium, were cut open and plundered of all the registered letters. The other letters were not touched. The robbery was discovered upon the arrival of the train, the Ostend express, at Verviers. Letters from America containing money and diamonds to the amount of £40,000, were stolen. It is supposed the authors of the robbery are a band of thieves who were implicated in the recent thefts of the English mail

Wild Steers Turned Loose.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—While a herd of forty Texan steers were being driven through the city to-day on their way to a slaughter house on the East river they were frightened by an elevated train and stampeded. The herd started in a mad gallop through the streets, despite all efforts to stop them. Most of them were captured before they went very far, but several kept on until they reached the Grand Central Depot. A crowd of passengers coming out of the depot was scattered like sheep. A panic ensued, but fortunately no one was hurt. The steers kept on their way, gored several horses and chased unlucky pedestrians. A lady in getting out of a stage on Fifth avenue was knocked down, but not seriously hurt. A boy was tossed into an ash barrel.

The drove kept on to the North river, where they were stopped by the water. One steer wanted to swim over to Jersey City and went over the pier into the water. He was fished out. The others started back for the East river, running wildly through the streets, goring horses and upsetting pedestrians. Four of the steers were shot by police and the rest finally corraled and were driven to the slaughter house. Although the wild stampede of the cattle caused much panic and damage, no people were seriously injured.

NO JOBBING CONTRACTORS

"It's Square Bidding Now"—The Navy Plunderers Sent to the Rear.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The absence of all the old naval jobbing contractors and their army of retainers was most conspicuous yesterday, when the contracts for the new cruisers were awarded. One of the most prominent Republican ship-builders of the country, whose integrity made him unsuccessful under the Robeson and Chandler management of the Navy, said to your correspondent this morning, "It's square bidding now; things have greatly altered about the Navy Department."

In former times when large naval contracts were to be awarded, favorite contractors were privately posted by inside clerks and inside and outside jobbers were thick as the lice of Egypt, all of whom had to be subsidized by contractors. In many instances, the largest contracts were given out without competition, and the contractor, while seeming to get large prices, was robbed at every turn while he was robbing the government.

The one noticeable feature of Washington under the Cleveland administration is the entire absence of the professional jobbers and lobbyists about the departments. It is honest government all around and honest business has a fair chance at everything the government wants done.

MALARIA DYSPEPSIA,

NERVOUS DEBILITY,

LIVER, LUNG AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

The eminent and celebrated Dr. Glessner writes: The Kaskine Co.—DEAR SIRS—"The first greatest successes I had with Kaskine were in chills and fever, malaria, nervous debility, rheumatism, dyspepsia, and liver diseases, and I considered at that time it was undoubtedly the best medicine ever discovered, but I was even then unfamiliar with its really wonderful powers in curing all the other germ diseases and disorders, particularly where the blood had become diseased or impoverished and digestion impaired. Strictly speaking, Kaskine is the only blood purifier we have. I use it also very largely with unfailing success in all diseases peculiar to women and children. In over three hundred cases I have cured there has never been the slightest bad effect following its use, and it is far superior to any tonic or nerve medicine ever known to the medical profession." Very truly yours,

Prof. W. F. Holcombe, M. D., 51 East 25th St., N. Y. (late Prof. in N. Y. Med. College) writes: "Kaskine is superior to quinine in its specific power, and never produces the slightest injury to the hearing or constitution."

The U. S. Examining Surgeon, Dr. L. R. White, writes: "Kaskine is the best medicine made."

—Some of the property holders in this borough seem to be exempt from the general law of cleaning off their sidewalks after the fall of a deep snow. How is this, Messrs. Council ?

—Between 12 and 15 inches of snow fell on Thursday (Thanksgiving day) and the sleigh bells jingled merrily the day after. By this time some of it has melted and the beauty of the beautiful is soiled considerably.

—Some of our merchants seriously think of getting up some novel holiday advertising scheme. They are those who rightly estimate the value of printer's ink and as a consequence meet with continued success.

—At about 4 o'clock on Monday morning of last week the barn of Jacob Weaver, near Pine Grove Mills, with all its contents, including live stock, except one cow and one calf, were destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at nearly $4000.

—Mrs. Sarah Ettlinger, of Woodward, will sell a valuable tract of land, several town lots, and a good town property, consisting of a dwelling house, stable and other outbuildings, at public sale on Saturday, December 18th, on her premises. For particulars see bills.

MEAT FOR WINTER. — Moyer & Kreamer's meat market on Main street will be kept open during the coming winter and persons wishing to buy large quantities of beef for butchering time will do well to apply at their place of business before buying elsewhere. 45 4t

—Harry Cohen, the New York Cheap Store man vacated the old Hardware store room on Main street on Tuesday and a Mr. Frank, of Bellefonte, will take possesion of the room next week with a stock of novelties. Sorry to lose Harry, he was a genial and popular merchant.

—The four persons who were concerned in the riot at Bellefonte on the day of the Blaine reception plead guilty at last week's court and were sentenced as follows : W. V. Emery $75 fine and his part of the costs ; Gibens, $40 and costs; Evey and Somers each $25 fine and costs.

PRIVATE SALE.—The property of John Swartz, Sr., late of Millheim, deceased, on North street, is offered for sale from now until January 1st, next. If not sold then, it can be rented for the year 1887. Apply to or address

—B. O. Deininger, Esq., and daughter Frankie, started on an eastern trip last Saturday morning. Miss Deininger is spending a week with relatives in York, Pa., while her father is buying his stock of holiday goods in Philadelphia and is visiting friends in Reading. They expect to return to-morrow evening.

—Rev. Heckman preached to the Methodist congregation last Sunday evening in the Lutheran church. On Monday evening he commenced protracted meeting in the basement of the M. E. church, which will likely be continued until the quarterly meeting on the 11th inst. From next Sunday on the M. E. S. school will be held regularly in the basement of the church and at the usual hour.

—The Pennsylvania Central Musical Association will hold its 14th annual convention in F. C. Moyer's Musical College, Freeburg, Snyder Co., Pa., commencing Monday, Jan. 10, 1887, to continue one week. The convention will be directed by Prof. F. C. Moyer, the proprietor of the college. Eminent talent from the neighboring counties will participate.

PUBLIC SALE OF ILLINOIS HORSES. —Mutthersbough & Zerbe will sell at public sale, at the Musser House stables, Millheim, Pa., Thursday, Dec. 2nd, 1886, at one o'clock p. m. a lot of fine horses and mares, selected with great care by an experienced buyer in Illinois. Farmers and others should not miss this rare opportunity to secure some extra good horse stock.

—Last week's Centre Hall Reporter gives an account of an accident which happened to Dr. Jacobs, of that place, on Saturday a week ago, and which will confine him to the house for several weeks. His horse run away and became unmanagable. To save several children who were in the road ahead of him he jumped from the buggy and succeeded in quieting the runaway horse. But in leaping from the buggy he had the misfortune to sustain a painful fracture of his right ankle.

REDEDICALION.—The reopening of the M. E. Church at Millheim, will take place on Dec. 11th and 12th. Rev. Geo. Leidy, Presiding Elder of the Altoona District, and Rev. E. J. Gray D. D. President of the Williamsport Dickinson Seminary will be present to preach, and conduct the services. All neighboring Pastors and their congregations are cordially invited to be present on the occasion.

ISAAC HECKMAN,

—We understand that the U. B. Sun day school also contemplate holding a Christmas entertainment.

—It would seem that the real, genuine winter has come and present indications are that building operations are stopped for this season. This is by no means a pleasant experience for our Knitting Mills company as they had calculated to see the factory in operation with the beginning of 1887. However it is their intention to continue the work whenever the weather permits.

—Every day adds to the great amount of evidence as to the curative powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Letters are constantly being received from all sections of the country, telling of benefits derived from this great medicine. It is unequaled for general debility, and as a blood purifier, expelling every trace of scrofula or other impurity. Now is the time to take it. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all druggists.

A SURPRISE FOR CHRISTMAS.—The publisher of that bright and interesting Magazine, known as The Home Journal, will actually send it for three months on trial free, as a Holiday Gift, to every one sending them at once their address and three 2-cent stamps for postage, etc. As the regular price of this popular publication is $1.00, every reader should grasp this golden opportunity, and address immediately,

THE HOME JOURNAL, Buffalo, N.Y.

—Mr. Geo. P. Bible, the erudite editor of the Centre Democrat, Bellefonte, has accepted a call from the trustees of the Lock Haven Normal School to fill the vacant position of professor of elocution in that institution. He only consented to do so however, until the place can be filled permanently. Mr. J. A. Swavely, foreman of the Democrat office, will attend to Mr. Bible's duties as associate editor. We congratulate Mr. Bible upon his promotion.

—Though the weather was exceedingly unpleasant on Thanksgiving day about fifty guests enjoyed the sumptuous meals which W. G. Rook, the landlord of the National Hotel, had prepared for the occasion. The elaborate bill of fare was dished up to the letter and every course did credit to the pleasant landlady and her able cooks. All those present agreed that it was unquestionably the most delicious dinner they ever partook of and concluded that it was "good to be there." In the evening the band was invited to be present and take a hand at the supper tables. A few lively tunes by the boys topped off the pleasures of the day nicely and everybody there seemed satisfied that Thanksgiving day had been celebrated in a very pleasant manner.

A FATAL DRAUGHT.—Frank Boyer, aged about 16 years, son of Mr. W. H. Boyer, has been employed by attorneys Dill & Beale to attend to their morning fire and put their office in shape for occupation during the day. This (Thursday) morning, he came early to attend to this duty, intending to go out hunting during the day, in company with a comrade, Frank Wertz, who came with him to the office. In the momentary absence of Wertz, Boyer seized a small bottle containing a liquid, and drank the contents, which prove to be carbolic acid. When Wertz returned, Boyer was on his feet, bending forward, with his hands clasped across his stomach, and evidently suffering excruciating pain. He could not give Wertz any explanation, in consequence of his distress. Wertz ran out for assistance. Mr. Stetler, of the Cameron House, came across the street, and the two obtained medical assistance at the earliest possible moment. The doctors did all they could to relieve the sufferer, knowing, however, that the draught could not fail to produce death. After suffering about an hour and a half, he was released by death.—Lewisburg Chronicle.

AARONSBURG.

Dr. E. J. Deshler and Jesse Wert connected their pavements with a substantial crossing.

L. D. Kurtz and his daughter, Lizzie, from Mifflinburg, were here to attend Mr. Sankey's funeral.

Some fellow paid a nocturnal visit to H. H. Weaver's smoke house. The would-be thief was disturbed and left without even a sausage.

Some of the brick pavements in the neighborhood of our post office need repairing very badly.

Mr. J. F. Clark, from New Jersey, a student of Bucknell University, Lewisburg, in company with Chas. Musser, spent a few days with the latter gentleman's parents, Mr. M. M. Musser's. Molly looked as pleasant as a basket of chips.

Miss Fritz, from Mt. Carmel, Northumberland Co., is visiting at Mr. D. H. Lenker's.

Blacksmith Frank Weiser is putting up a new shop immediately south of Lew Mench's barn, on Rachel's way.

Some one reported that there will be a musical convention in our town some time this winter. Although not definite we hope the report will finally prove correct.

Mr. John Bright lying northwest of of town has lately been confined to a bed of sickness. He is under medical treatment.

We very much admired the tone of the new bell of the Millheim M. E. church last Sunday morning. Of course the Colonel knows how to ring it.

COBURN.

From the number of people butchering around here the last week there will be no famine in the meat line On Wednesday Sam'l Ard butchered and was followed on Thursday by Sam. Ulrich and Adam Richard and on Friday by John Bowersox and Mrs. Evert.

On Wednesday night we had the first snow fall of any account this winter, which was kept up nearly all of Thursday and made travel very bad.

Those who had the pleasure of attending the Thanksgiving dinner of landlord Rook report an excellent time and a fine bill of fare, making a feast fit for a king.

A Mr. Jones moved his family into one half of the Reed property at this place on Saturday last. He intends working at Paddy Mountain Tunnel during the week.

We have been informed that A. T. Grenninger intends moving his family to Karthans shortly, where he proposes to engage in the lumber business.

The letter box at the station is now a fixed matter and as said before proves a great convenience to the public.

On Sunday last we noticed that genial landlord Capt. Rook and that happy merchant Col. Long drive through town seated in a cutter behind a good stepper, enjoying the sleighing. We were wondering why the editor was not along.

A party of railroad boys who are camped at Ingleby, east of here, succeeded in killing a fine deer last week.

The Railroad officials some time ago changed the name of Fowler station to Ingleby station.

There was preaching here last Sunday by Rev. Stambach. Rev. Deitzler preaches here Sunday evening next.

Samuel Grenninger, of Sugar Valley, was here Sunday visiting his son Ammon.

A. J. Katherman, of Mifflinburg, spent last Wednesday night with his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Kreamer at this place. He had brought the remains of Samuel Sankey to Millheim.

Coburn has a population of about 170. There are 36 dwelling houses, 5 store buildings, one church, 2 grain houses, 1 hotel, 1 school house, 1 black smith shop and a planing mill, with signs of a general advance in building in the Spring. There would be a good opening for a good shoemaker, tinsmith and also a good cabinet maker in connection with a furniture store and undertaking. There is no better sight in the county than right here for a tannery and a flouring mill. We have the bark and grain right at our doors and a railroad handy for shipping purposes. All we want is some one with the pluck and cash to take hold of it and there can be no doubt of good results. If these operations can be run on a paying basis at other points, where all the material has to be shipped and when manufacturered, reshipped again to market, there certainly could be money made at a point like this where the material is at our doors and would only have to be manufactured and then shipped to market. VALE.

GREEN BRIAR.

Last week's snow was welcomed by all and the sleighing was made good use of.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitmer, of Hartleton, Union Co., were the guests of G. W. Stover, Friday and Saturday of last week. Pleasant and entertaining as they are they are always welcome visitors in this neck o' woods.

At last one of our hunters succeeded in capturing a deer. Henry Wingard is the lucky shot. The deer weighed 140 pds. when dressed.

Butchering is the order of the day and invitations to come to the "metzelsoups" are quite numerous. Of course your scribe never fails to accept when he is invited.

The bad condition of the roads and sickness have been the cause of very irregular attendance of our schools for the past week.

Quite a lot of fish were taken out of Penns Creek during the late freshet, some measuring 19 inches. But how did you catch them, boys? Hope not with the net, for if you did Constable Geary may teach you a lesson in law.

Samuel Grenninger, of Sugar Valley, bought Mr. Bartley's house and lot at sheriff's sale. ZITSKA.

SMITH TOWN.

Hard traveling at present.

Ben. Frankenberger is nursing a very sore hand.

The steam threshers are snowed shut. Just so with other folks who were not ready yet for a deep snow.

Jacob Breon bought three sheep costing him $50. Presumably some of Ohio's best breed.

What a broad smile has settled on Charles Frankenberger's face since he shot that wild turkey.

John Hershberger bought a 1600 weight horse last Monday.

This (Thursday) evening Mr. Foreman, teacher of the Pike school, will have a spelling bee in his school room. All are invited to come and participate in the exercises.

The farmers, lumbermen and traveling public in general feel like petitioning the town people not to throw their coal ashes on the road. With a heavy load on a sled it is almost impossible to get over those places and even in a sleigh it is an uncomfortable obstruction to cross. JUMBO.

WOODWARD.

C. W. Hosterman will move into the hotel property next spring.

Samuel Mowry will move into the house now occupied by Sam. Williams.

Miss Jennie Stahlecker, of Coburn, is passing this week in our village.

On Saturday another deer fell a victim to the unerring aim of John J. Orndorf.

During the last week two U. S. Pension agents have visited our neighborhood to investigate the validity of two applications. ARGENRI.

REBERSBURG.

Mrs. Reed is slowly recovering from her late illness.

Scott Kerstetter left on last Monday for Pine Creek Hollow where he is engaged on McCool's saw mill as head sawyer.

The carpenters as well as the masons were compelled to quit work on Austin Gramley's buildings on account of the late snow and cold snap.

S. L. Strohecker with a party from Nittany, is at present out in the Alleghany mountains on a regular deer hunt.

Mrs Samuel Dubs, of Freeport, Ill., is at present here on a visit to her relatives.

T. F. Moyer, of the Rebersburg Hotel, left last Monday for Berwick, Columbia Co., where he thinks of renting a hotel and livery stables. Mr. Moyer will remove from this place next spring and we will lose an obliging landlord.

Wm. Hackman is at present repairing the blacksmith shop lately occupied by Samuel Condo. Mr. Hackman is an excellent mechanic and just the man we need in this town.

Some heavy butchering was done in our burg the other day. At Sam'l. Condo's when it was thought everything was ready for action the butchers were surprised to find their utensils scattered to the four winds just as if a cylone had struck the place. Everything was confusion when Prof. Meyer arrived upon the ground and put an end to the hog's existence by planting three bullets in its forehead. Head butcher Wate then used three knives to stab the dying porker and the whole exciting act lasted about an hour. The hog was finally weighed and tipped the scales at 433. Mr. Bressler followed by butchering two porkers and not to be outdone in the line of pork weighed them and reports 841 pounds, one of the hogs weighing 453 lbs. This puts Bressler to the head in this valley.

John Sheets, of near Wolf's store, had the misfortune the other day to cut an ugly gash in the upper part of his foot while chopping wood.

Now Mr. Editor I must make mention of a matter which may not prove interesting reading, but which, for the sake of justice and fairness needs clearing up. It seems that there are some young men in this neighborhood who consider it a smart trick to raise and circulate false reports. I have reference to the article which appeared in my communication of last week in regard to chickens and pie stealing. The information which was handed me by certain two fellows who don't deserve the name of gentlemen, for facts turned out to be nothing but lies made up with the intention of injuring the character of the persons accused. Furthermore it may be said that the slandered parties are the superiors of their accusers in every respect. Let these young jackanapes remember that instead of gaining any friends they have made lots of enemies by their precious news and your correspondent will hereafter spot that kind of reporters when gathering news for the JOURNAL. SQUIBOB.

Home Evidence

No other preparation has won success at home equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is made, it is now, as it has been for years, the leading medicine for purifying the blood, and toning and strengthening the system. This "good name at home" is "a tower of strength abroad."

People of Lowell

It would require a volume to print all Lowell people have said in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mr. Albert Estes, living at 28 East Pine Street, Lowell, for 15 years employed as boss carpenter by J. W. Bennett, president of the Erie Telephone Company, had a large running sore come on his leg, which troubled him a year, when he began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The sore soon grew less in size, and in a short time disappeared.

Praise Hood's Sarsaparilla

Jos. Dunphy, 214 Central Street, Lowell, had swellings and lumps on his face and neck, which Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured.

Mrs. C. W. Marriott, wife of the First Assistant Fire Engineer of Lowell, says that for 16 years she was troubled with stomach disorder and sick headache, which nothing relieved. The attacks came on every fortnight, when she was obliged to take her bed, and was unable to endure any noise. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after a time the attacks ceased entirely.

Many more might be given had we room. On the recommendation of people of Lowell, who know us, we ask you to try

Miscellaneous News.

Frozen to Death in a Storm.

MANDAN, Dak., Nov. 25.—Two children, named Meisel, were frozen to death 10 miles north of here. They went out to look for cattle, were lost in a storm and were afterward found dead. Two brothers, named Sims, were frozen to death while returning from work.

Two Boys at One Shot.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 25.—About one o'clock yesterday afternoon a young son of City Solicitor Dively, while playing with a pistol, shot a companion named Clarence Rickabaugh through the left arm, inflicting an ugly wound. Young Dively, as soon as he discovered what he had done, dropped his pistol and ran away from the injured boy. Later in the afternoon Dively returned to his home, and it was discovered that he had also been shot through his left hand. He held the muzzle of the revolver in the palm of his hand, and the weapon was accidentally discharged, the contents passing through his hand and also through young Rickabaugh's arm, and lodged in a fence near by. Their ages are nine years.

Attacked by a Boar.

FLEETWOOD, Pa., Nov. 25.—An exciting and what will prove a fatal fight took place yesterday in North Withall, Lehigh county, between Abraham Jacobs, a rich farmer and an infuriated boar. Jacob was trying to drive the animal when it turned upon him. Jacob defended himself with a club but the boar knocked him down, bit him severely about the legs and arms and then gored him in the abdomen, inflicting a wound nine inches long, with its tusks. A bulldog came to the rescue and a furious fight ensued between the boar and the dog over the senseless form of the farmer. Neighbors attracted by the noise, arrived and shot the boar. Jacobs was carried to his home in a dying condition.

Paralyzed and Starving.

A Miser Dying of Hunger—$300 in His Pocket—Over $1,700 in Safe Deposits and Bank.

READING, Pa., Nov. 25.—Two years ago John Beck, aged about 50, came to Reading from Lebanon county, and rented an upper room in the St. Cloud Hotel. Here he lived by himself in a very miserly way, and was frequently not seen for a week, when he would be going about the city picking up a few pennies by filing saws. He was looked upon as wretchedly poor, and people frequently gave him a few cents to help him along. The other night he was seen crawling down stairs on hands and feet. Five days ago he was stricken with paralysis, and helpless and speechless, with nothing to eat, he lay in the room all this time. He was greatly emaciated. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, but he cannot recover. Two large store boxes and a pair of old blankets were the only articles found in his room. In his pockets was found $27, and two other wallets on his person contained nearly $300. Papers found on him show that he has $1,700 at interest. He frequently ate nothing for a day, unless food was given to him.

A Silent Bell.

Something very, very sad happened near the corner of Monroe avenue and Randolph street yesterday. A very meaty man had met three friends at that point and stopped to tell a couple of stories. A young man, who was a stranger to all, was leaning against the front of a store, bearing the general appearance of one who knew all that was worth knowing before he cut his baby teeth, and was now hanging unto life because death refused to come. Pretty soon the meaty man got off some pun, and the hand of the weary young man was lifted up and the tones of his chestnut bell rang out on the morning air.

'Was that you?' asked the story teller as he wheeled around.

'Yaas.'

'Did I get off something old?'

'Veary old.'

Beg your pardon, sir. I will now get off something entirely new for your benefit.'

He seized the weary traveler, whirled him around, and a stout calf-skin boot was planted against him four times in succession.

'If there's anything old about that just ring two bells on me,' said the kicker as he ceased his labors.

It must have been a new thing. The young man had tears in his eyes as he steered himself around the nearest corner, and the sharpest ears caught no melody from his little bell.—Detroit Free Press.

MUNN & CO. PATENTS
ESTABLISHED 1845 — NEW YORK

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 261 Broadway, New York.

Handbook about patents mailed free.

Automatic Sewing Machine Co.
72 West 23d St., New York, N. Y.

We invite special attention to our NEW PATENT AUTOMATIC TENSION MACHINE, making precisely the same stitch as the Wilcox & Gibbs, and yet, if not preferred to the Wilcox & Gibbs Automatic Tension Machine, can be returned any time within 30 days and money refunded. But what is more remarkable still, we never knew a woman willing to do her own family sewing on a shuttle machine after having tried our new Patent AUTOMATIC.
Even Shoe Manufacturers find it best suited to their work—its elastic seams are more durable. Truly—Automatic Sewing Machines are fast superseding shuttle machines, and it is no use to deny it. Truth is mighty and does prevail. Shuttle Machines have seen their best days.
